

Short Bio

Alan Rathbun recently retired from the position of Pipeline Safety Director for the Washington Utilities and Transportation Commission (WUTC). He served in that position on two occasions totaling six years. The WUTC has regulatory jurisdiction over intrastate gas and hazardous liquid pipelines together with serving as interstate agents for PHMSA inspecting all interstate pipelines within Washington.

Alan's state career included 35 years as a regulator for three state agencies with 30 years in program or senior management positions. He lives in Olympia, Washington and gained a bachelor of science degree in civil engineering from the University of Minnesota in 1973.